

Aquajets Team Code of Conduct

Everyone associated with Aquajets is expected to act with sportsmanship, dignity, and respect for others at all times - at practices and meets, in locker rooms, on social media, etc. This pertains to all members of the Aquajets' family, including coaches, swimmers, parents, staff, and officials.

Poor sportsmanship includes:

- Taunting, arguing, or disrespectful behavior with coaches, officials, teammates, parents, opponents or spectators,
- Using threatening or profane language.
- Baiting, bullying or bigotry toward coaches, officials, parents, teammates, opponents or spectators.
- Uncontrolled behavior on the pool deck, in the locker rooms, and in spectator areas.

Aquajets has a Three Strike Policy with regard to violations of the Aquajets' Code of Conduct. The following consequences, also listed on the website, will be enforced by the Head Coach and Board of Directors:

1st Strike: The lead coach for the swimmer's group will talk to the swimmer about their behavior and provide them with their first warning. The coach will also send the swimmer's parent(s) an email informing them of the situation;

2nd Strike: If the behavior continues, the swimmer's lead group coach will set up a meeting with the swimmer and their parent(s) to discuss the behavior and provide them with their second warning. At this time, the swimmer will be required to meet with our team Confidence Coach, Brooks Wilkening, before returning to practice.

3rd Strike: The swimmer's lead group coach, the Head Coach and a Board member will have a meeting with the swimmer and their parent(s). At this time, dismissal from the team will be discussed.
